THE LIFE BLOOD OF OHIO IS DRAINED

BY EASTERN CAPITALISTS OWNING PUBLIC UTILITIES

Republican State Chairman Declares—The Issue Before the People Is To Stop the Plundering of the State By Foreign Capital—The Ohio Utilities Commission Merely a Catspaw For Capitalists—The Repeal of the Primary Is of real Importance

"Plundering of the state by the utilities interests," of the east with the resultant depressing effect on business, and abolition of the primary in which in small communities "the underworld" is a "power" were seen as chief issues of the 1928 state campaign by Fred W. Warner, Marion, chairman of the Republican state central committee.

Mr. Warner's statement was issued following a conference with Mrs. Wilma Sinclair LeVan, Steubenville, Republican national committeewoman for Ohio in regard to the Ohio Council of Republican Women, during which he lauded the selection of Senator Nettie B. Loughhead, Cincinnati, as chairman of the women's division of the Republican state central committee.

At the same time, Mr. Warner assailed "the plundering of our state by the utility interests" and the primary election law, declaring "the underworld in all communities are a power in the primaries but would not be so in an assembly or convention of either political party."

Business in Ohio, he declared, is depressed because of "millions of dollars" taken out of the state by eastern utility capitalists. He advocated building of a platform based on "principles rather than expediency" and requiring all candidates to pledge themselves to stand by it.

"This heightened interest in government and politics shown by Republican women," Mr. Warner said, lauding efforts of Mrs. LeVan and as sociates, "is a fine thing. The selection of Senator Nettie B. Loughhead as chairman of the women's division of the Republican state central committee is a very happy choice."

Personnel of the women's division is "of high grade" and is made up of women who are "thoroughly Republican" and giving "unselfish service" he said.

"There are two issues," Mr. Warner said, "now facing our citizenship which if properly presented in the coming state campaign will arouse great political interest. They are first, the plundering of the state by the utility interests and second, the repeal of the primary law."

Calling attention to editorial comment by Ohio newspapers on "deplorable governmental chaos in Indiana," Mr. Warner inquired "why these same papers are not making an analysis of governmental conditions existing in our own state?"

Citing the conviction of mayor of a "principal" city in Indiana "in a bribery case," Mr. Warner said this was followed by conviction in Ohio of a police chief for murder. Pointing to criticism of the Indiana director of education for attempting "also to hold his position as superintendent of schools of Indianapolis," Mr. Warner said.

"In one of our recent cases in the supreme court, it developed that an ex-insurance commissioner had been a member of a law firm on the pay roll of an insurance company while serving as head of the insurance department. Some members of the supreme court were rather inclined to criticize counsel in the case for calling attention to that fact.

"An ex-director of education now is standing suit on a charge of selling stocks that were uncertified. The reform chief of police appointed to clean up bootlegging in one of our principal cities was killed in an automobile accident on the road to a prize fight. Several bottles of liquor were found in his car.

"Ex-sheriffs are being convicted of bootlegging. It seems to me that it is time our citizenship took stock as to what has brought about this deplorable condition. Our jails and penitentiaries are filled to overflowing and the cause, apparently, is forgotten in an attempt to solve the problem.

"In my opinion, the underworld in all our smaller communities are a power in the primaries, but would not be so in an assembly or convention of either political organization. Owing to the disorganized condition key men are put on the pay roll of big utility companies of the east so chosen there is little or no chance for them to lose.

"In my opinion, the utility capitalists from the east which in organization affairs have aligned themselves with lobbyists of all factions, have more to do with the election of candidates than have the public generally.

"Millions of dollars are being taken from the state of Ohio every year which can have no other effect than to bring about a depressed condition of business for manufacturers and merchants and hardship for the artisans.

"Citizens of Ohio and the business world in particular ought to give this matter serious thought and see that the men whom they employ as public servants promote the wellbeing of the state rather than serve the interests of their overlords in Wall street.

"If these problems are clearly and fairly put to the voters by the Republican party in its platform and every man or woman seeking public office made to understand that he or she is running on that platform—principles rather than expediency—there will be considerable interest in the next campaign and a fair expression of public sentiment obtained."

The West Rushville church is a flourishing country parish with a good church building and enviable record.

Stops the Hurry

New York—It will be much more difficult for young folks to marry in a hurry in this state. Under a new law all under twenty-one must wait five days before getting licenses.

Beheading Ax That Never Worked, Relic

London—Visitors to the British home office in Whitehall still see a relic of the Cato street conspiracy in 1820 in a beheading ax which is kept in a glass case.

The ax has never beheaded anyone, but it was made to behead the conspirators. The five persons convicted were sentenced to be beheaded in the ordinary way, but the authorities decided to hang them first and not take any chances. The beheading was done in public immediately afterward on the scaffold. It was performed with a surgeon's amputating knife by a masked "resurrection man" who was paid 20 guineas for his services.

London Built on Sand, News Scares Populace

London—London has discovered that its house is built upon the sand. Not since the German air raids of ten years ago has there been such trepidation over the possibility of a catastrophe.

In the last few weeks a half dozen buildings in various parts of the city have crumbled and fallen to the ground, great holes have opened in the streets and a tremendous cavity was found beneath Piccadilly, which is in course of reconstruction.

London builders have made application for a revision of the standard form of agreement between builders and architects, and the national physical laboratory is studying the effects of vibration on buildings.

The top thirty feet of London's surface ground is composed of shifting strata in which endless subterranean burrowings has gone on and on. Underground London is full of streams and water has been drained from one place to another in such a way that the water-bearing strata is constantly shifting, and making hidden chasms.

WIFE SLAYER WILL CONDUCT OWN DEFENSE

George K. Remus, Bootlegger King, Will Be His Own Lawyer When On Trial.

George Remus, former "bootleg king" announced that he would act as his own attorney for shooting to death his wife, Imogene Remus.

Remus said this at police Cincinnati headquarters when he talked to newspaper men after an examination as to his sanity by Dr. W. C. Kendig Hamilton county court alienist.

Remus, however, said he will not avail himself of any outside attorneys and that he will rely on his own legal abilities in his difficulty.

Commenting upon the interview he had with Dr. Kendig, Remus observed.

"They think I am insane; well, I'm not half as crazy as some of those who think I am. I am entirely responsible for the act I committed. Of course, every act of this sort is committed under great mental stress and in the precise moment, perhaps the mind is somewhat deranged but complete sanity returns immediately after.

"I shall make no defense of insanity. I feel that I was justified in doing what I did. I owed this to society. My fate will be in the hands of 12 men and I will abide by their decision."

A reporter told Remus that "no doubt you had this all planned. It seems to me that you also would have planned your getaway."

"Your youth excuses you for the questions you have asked," Remus replied. "When you have become more matured and have attained a ripe age you, too, under similar circumstances would reason differently. Why should I go about the country as a fugitive from justice—a man with a price on his head?"

"If you have a clear conscience, you have nothing to fear, and consequently why should I run away? A man who feels that he had performed a duty to society, and that he has committed no moral wrong, would not run away from the consequences of his act, but would do just as I have done, give himself up."

One bullet from Remus' pistol terminated their two year old marriage troubles, when he caught his wife in Eden park while she was enroute to the divorce court. The divorce suit, filed a few days before Remus was released from the Atlanta penitentiary in 1925, was to have received a definite hearing before Judge Charles Hoffman after it had been delayed by repeated continuances.

Fosters Nature Study

The move made by Rev. Joseph Murgas, pastor of a Slovak congregation in North Wilkes-Barre, to bring the children of the parish, and all others who care to avail themselves of the opportunity, into closer touch with nature, is worthy of special commendation. The pastor, says Nature Magazine, has secured a tract of 30 acres where bird and plant life are to be propagated and encouraged, and all phases of nature fostered for their educational inspirational value.

Castaway in Mid-Ocean

About 800 miles off Boston in the North Atlantic the lookout on the steamer President Garfield saw a piece of wreckage. It was a hatch cover with a live object on it. The steamer stopped and rowing out to the wreckage sailors found a Siamese kitten, wet to the skin and half starved but still alive. Where it came from will remain a mystery of the sea. It is now a mascot of the Garfield's crew.—Capper's Weekly.

Fosters Nature Study

The move made by Rev. Joseph Murgas, pastor of a Slovak congregation in North Wilkes-Barre, to bring the children of the parish, and all others who care to avail themselves of the opportunity, into closer touch with nature, is worthy of special commendation. The pastor, says Nature Magazine, has secured a tract of 30 acres where bird and plant life are to be propagated and encouraged, and all phases of nature fostered for their educational inspirational value.

Castaway in Mid-Ocean

About 800 miles off Boston in the North Atlantic the lookout on the steamer President Garfield saw a piece of wreckage. It was a hatch cover with a live object on it. The steamer stopped and rowing out to the wreckage sailors found a Siamese kitten, wet to the skin and half starved but still alive. Where it came from will remain a mystery of the sea. It is now a mascot of the Garfield's crew.—Capper's Weekly.

Got His Money Back

In plowing near Fairlee, Md., a farmer turned up a pocketbook which he had lost two years ago while at work in the same spot. The wallet was practically decayed and a $5 bill it contained had fallen into seven pieces. The money was forwarded to Washington to be redeemed for the benefit of the owner.

A SMART EARLY FALL ENSEMBLE

YVONNE TAYLOR

A charming costume for early fall is this one worn by Yvonne Taylor, new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player.

The suit is of black crepe Elizabeth. The coat boasts a long V-neck line and fastens in front with a long bow of self material. The skirt is pleated.

With this suit is worn a pert little black hat of felt and grosgrain ribbon and a silver fox scarf.

Farm Horseshoeing Information Given

Using Unshod Animals Will Result in Tender Feet.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

With the passing of the blacksmith shop from every crossroad, hamlet and village, the farmer is experiencing considerable difficulty in getting his horses shod. The solution of the problem in a large measure devolves upon the farmer himself in learning to do the work on his own farm. To assist the farmer in learning to care for the feet of his work stock properly and to shoe his horses, if necessary, the United States Department of Agriculture has prepared an illustrated bulletin on farm horseshoeing, known as Farmers' Bulletin 1535-F.

Using unshod horses and mules for pulling heavy farm machinery wears off the horny wall of the foot at the ground surface more rapidly than growth is supplied from above and will result in tender feet. A well-shod horse not only is kept in service but he is a more efficient worker in that he can better apply his strength because he has a better footing. It is important, however, that shod horses have regular attention—that about every four to six weeks the shoes be removed, the hoofs trimmed, and the shoes refitted.

Ready-to-wear shoes of various sizes for horses and mules can now be obtained and greatly simplify the shoeing problem for farmers. A copy of the bulletin may be obtained by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Use of Flashlight by Campers Cuts Down Forest Fire Hazard

WITH the camping season in full swing, those who follow this time honored custom of achieving recreation and health in the same project, can do more to contribute toward the elimination of the bane of the U. S. Forestry Services—the forest fire.

Officials of the Forestry divisions of the various states, as well as the Federal division, have pointed out that the thoughtless use of matches by campers, has been a prime reason for the fires which have devastated great tracts of valuable timber, and laid waste an almost endless empire in the wooded regions of America.

While use of matches or an automatic lighter is essential in the preparation of campfires, it is pointed out that the camper can help to cut down the fire hazard by ceasing to use matches for other than necessary purposes. For the purpose of "striking a light" along a path, or for hunting for objects or location at night, a flashlight should take the place of matches. With the flashlight, a steady light is provided without any fire hazard whatsoever. In addition to its service in eliminating the possibility of fire, the flashlight stands in especially good stead to the camper when searching at night for articles of wear or utility.

How often have those who hit the trail muttered "drat that hatchet, I can't find it at all in this blinkety-blank blackness!"

A few minutes search with a flashlight will inevitably turn up the missing article, with a saving of time and patience to the camper and, as the Forestry people point out, a possible saving of countless trees and shrubs from the blight of summer fires.

Charleston in Ireland

The charleston has been included in the annual dancing tournament between cities of Ulster, Ireland. It is not classed as one of the regular dances, such as the foxtrot, waltz and tango, but is given in a special and separate competition. The tournament this year was conducted in Victoria hall, Belfast, by the Ulster amateur dancing championship, and every amateur dancer in Ulster was eligible. The first prize was a loving cup presented by the lord mayor of Belfast, when the contest was inaugurated three years ago. Miss Katherine Watson of Derry judged the trials, and admitted that Belfast had better dancers than Derry.

Incomplete Diagnosis

Jack, aged three, went to see his new little cousin. When he came home his mother asked him how the baby was and what it was. He replied: "Oh, mother, they got a nice little dollie, but I can't tell you what it is, because she didn't have any hair yet."

Hellenist

Hellenes was one of the names of the inhabitants of ancient Greece, and the word Hellenist meant one who affected Greek manners, especially a person of Jewish extraction who used the Greek language as his mother tongue, as did the Jews of Asia Minor, Greece, Syria and elsewhere. Many of the Jews scattered through the provinces of Asia Minor during the first century of the Christian era were Hellenists.

Amber Beads Long Popular

The superstition which clings to the meaning of beads is of ancient origin. The custom of wearing an amber necklace was immensely common, and is not yet extinct among old women in England. The amber, when heated, sends forth an agreeable perfume. In olden times it was the present made by a mother to her daughter on her wedding eve.

Said bonds are issued for the purpose of providing funds for the improvement of Pickaway, Ohio, Washington and Clinton Streets and Half Avenue, by the construction of an extension to the Huston Street storm water sewer therein and under the authority of the laws of Ohio and of Section 3339 of the General Code of Ohio, and under and in accordance with a certain ordinance of the said city entitled "Ordinance No. 533 Providing for the issuance of bonds of the City of Circleville for the purpose of improving Pickaway, Ohio, Washington and Clinton Streets and Half Avenue by the construction of a storm water sewer," passed on the 3d day of August, 1927.

Said bonds will be sold to the highest bidder for not less than par and accrued interest. All bids must state the number of bonds bid for and the gross amount of bid and accrued interest to date of delivery, all bids must be accompanied with a certified check, payable to the treasurer of the said city for 5 per centum of the amount of bonds bid for, upon condition that if the bid is accepted the bidder will receive and pay for such bonds as may be issued as above set forth, within ten days from the time of award, said check to be retained by the said city if said condition is not fulfilled. The City of Circleville reserves the right to reject any and all bids. Bids should be sealed and endorsed, "Bids for the Huston Street Storm Water Sewer Extension Bonds." ELA. LINDSEY, CITY AUDITOR.

WITH the camping season in full swing, those who follow this time honored custom of achieving recreation and health in the same project, can do more to contribute toward the elimination of the bane of the U. S. Forestry Service—the forest fire.

Officials of the Forestry divisions of the various states, as well as the Federal division, have pointed out that the thoughtless use of matches by campers, has been a prime reason for the fires which have devastated great tracts of valuable timber, and laid waste an almost endless empire in the wooded regions of America.

While use of matches or an automatic lighter is essential in the preparation of campfires, it is pointed out that the camper can help to cut down the fire hazard by ceasing to use matches for other than necessary purposes. For the purpose of "striking a light" along a path, or for hunting for objects or location at night, a flashlight should take the place of matches. With the flashlight, a steady light is provided without any fire hazard whatsoever. In addition to its service in eliminating the possibility of fire, the flashlight stands in especially good stead to the camper when searching at night for articles of wear or utility.

How often have those who hit the trail muttered "drat that hatchet, I can't find it at all in this blinkety-blank darkness!"

A few minutes search with a flashlight will inevitably turn up the missing article, with a saving of time and patience to the camper and, as the Forestry people point out, a possible saving of countless trees and shrubs from the blight of summer fires.

The charleston has been included in the annual dancing tournament between cities of Ulster, Ireland. It is not classed as one of the regular dances, such as the foxtrot, waltz and tango, but is given in a special and separate competition. The tournament this year was conducted in Victoria hall, Belfast, by the Ulster amateur dancing championship, and every amateur dancer in Ulster was eligible. The first prize was a loving cup presented by the lord mayor of Belfast, when the contest was inaugurated three years ago. Miss Katherine Watson of Derry judged the trials, and admitted that Belfast had better dancers than Derry.

Incomplete Diagnosis

Jack, aged three, went to see his new little cousin. When he came home his mother asked him how the baby was and what it was. He replied: "Oh, mother, they got a nice little dollie, but I can't tell you what it is, because she didn't have any hair yet."

Hellenist

Hellenes was one of the names of the inhabitants of ancient Greece, and the word Hellenist meant one who affected Greek manners, especially a person of Jewish extraction who used the Greek language as his mother tongue, as did the Jews of Asia Minor, Greece, Syria and elsewhere. Many of the Jews scattered through the provinces of Asia Minor during the first century of the Christian era were Hellenists.

Amber Beads Long Popular

The superstition which clings to the meaning of beads is of ancient origin. The custom of wearing an amber necklace was immensely common, and is not yet extinct among old women in England. The amber, when heated, sends forth an agreeable perfume. In olden times it was the present made by a mother to her daughter on her wedding eve.

If the beard has any standing in the world today, it is undoubtedly because of the Jews, who held their whiskers to be sacred, and swore by them. Later, the Turks did the same.
The sultan's followers used to comb
their whiskers after prayers, catch the hairs that came out, break them
in two and bury them, on the theory that in some mysterious way the hairs helped to make soft walking to the gates of paradise. This the Turks firmly believed.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

To the Honorable Benson W. Hough, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of Ohio, City of Circleville, in the County of Pickaway and State of Ohio in said District, respectfully represents:

That on the 9th day of March, last past, she was duly adjudged bankrupt under the Acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy; that she has duly surrendered all her property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said Acts and of the orders of the court touching her bankruptcy.

Wherefore She Prays that she may be decreed by the court to have a full discharge from all debts provable
against her estate under said Bankrupt Acts, except such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.
Dated this 26th day of September
A. D. 1927.

LAURA M. HOOVER,
Bankrupt.Order of Notice Thereof.

Southern District of Ohio, ss.:
On this 16th day of September A.
D. 1927, on reading the foregoing petition, it is

ORDERED BY THE COURT, that a hearing be had upon the same on the 9th day of December A. D. 1927 before said court, at Columbus, in said District at 10 o'clock in the forenoon; and that notice thereof be published in the Union-Herald, a newspaper printed in said District, and that all known creditors and other persons in interest may appear at the same time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petitioner should not be granted.

And It is Further Ordered by the Court, that the Referee shall send by mail to all known creditors copies of said petition and this order, addressed to them at their places of residence as stated.

Witness the Honorable Benson W.
Hough, Judge of said Court, and the seal thereof at Columbus, in said District, on the 27th day of September, A. D., 1927.

DIRECTORS OF
FUNERALS HAD
BIG BANQUETMembers, Wives and Guests
Fine Time At the Boggs
-- Knapp Orchestra.

The members of the Mt. Pleasant
Funeral Directors association, comprising the counties of Fairfield, Hecking, Perry and Pickaway, their wives and guests, met Thursday evening, at the Boggs hotel, and all the counties were represented except Hocking. This meeting place being the extreme western portion of the district, it meant quite a long drive
to some present, but nevertheless they reported a beautiful drive.

Dinner was served at 6:30 and music was furnished by the Knapp orchestra, Five Points, Miss Mary
Elizabeth Knapp, being the leader.
The orchestra comprises 12 pieces
and the personnel is: Julia Hosler,
Dewitt Bach, Geraldine Dennis,
Charlotte Knapp, Frances McCafferty,
Helyn Long, Genevieve Jones, Ray-
mond Lucas, Frances Porter, Russell
Hosler, Forest Graham, under the supervision of J. E. Knapp, Mt. Sterling, R. F. D. 3, and is ready at any time to fill engagements.

After the dinner hour Mr. A. C.
Moore, the manager of the Mid-West
Box company, gave quite an instructive talk regarding the plant and the process in making straw paper, and
following this the orchestra and the wives of the members were entertained at the Grand opera house and the members went into their business session.

The members are endeavoring to get better acquainted with each other
and place the profession on a high
plane as much condemnation has
been heaped upon the profession
which is uncalled for. There is no profession, where greater purity of
character and a higher standard of moral excellence are required than
the funeral director, and to attain
such eminence is a duty every funeral director owes to his profession
and to the public.

The next meeting will be in Fairfield county and in all probability
will be held in Lancaster. Those present at the meeting were: Mr. and
Mrs. A. E. Johnson, Baltimore; Mr.
and Mrs. B. F. L'Aville, Bremen; Mr.
and Mrs. C. M. Thomen, Carroll; Mr.
and Mrs. Samuel T. Conn, Hemlock;
Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Conn and son,
James Jr., Shawnee; Mr. and Mrs. E.
F. Schlegel, Ashville; Mr. and Mrs.
C. E. Hill and daughter, Helen, Williamsport. Other guests were Rev.
Benjamin DeCamp, John Mitchell, A.
C. Moore and C. C. Chappelle.

Mr. Hill presided as toastmaster
and introduced the speaker of the evening and the other guests, while
Mr. Knapp introduced the members
of the youthful orchestra which so delightfully entertained the party during the dinner hour.

All in all, it was a most delightful affair, thoroughly enjoyed by all, the
visitors, who were profuse in their
praise of the dinner and of the manner in which the details of the meeting were arranged and carried out.

POPULAR, OF COURSE

First Youth—Do you find yourself
popular with the girls?
Second Youth—Oh, yes, I own a car.

How to Boast

Boasting's a thing most men despise;
But if you have that bent,
Better to boast about your rise
Than brag of your descent.

The Easier Way

Fireman (to captain)—Please, sir, the schoolhouse is burning down, but we can't get up to the second floor
without a ladder.

Captain—That doesn't matter; you just wait till the second floor is burned down and then you can get in.—Kikeriki, Vienna.

For Proper Digestion

We have it from an eminent explorer that cannibals are very proud of their table manners. It is to be hoped that they always take politicians with a grain of salt.

Reptile Skin Is
Featured in CoatGarment Varied in Coloring,
Using Beige and White
or Gray and White.

There have been so many coats
that have appeared throughout the season to attract the roving eye of
fashion, that it seems as though there
could be little left in the way of novelty to offer a jaded public. Coats of almost every length, color, width and
line have made their successful appearances. They have been, in many cases, made to accompany just one
frock in an ensemble idea, and have
in other instances been made to serve
any number of purposes.

The sports coat, as a rule, has led the field in favor. It has much in the way of chic, for its lines have been unusual as well as slender. There
has often been present either a swag-
ger of rather loose lines as well as a snugginess of slenderizing straight and simple silhouettes.

All fabrics are chosen for the season's sport coats. From rough silk,
printed or plain, to jerseys, kashas,
twills and flannels, every material has
made itself popular through much
usage. Colors, too, have been varied.
The pastel tints of afternoon sports to
the striking shades employed in other
coats, has left little to the imagination. Dark tones, too, have been seen
in smart contrasts forming an ensemble of note.

And now along comes the reptile-
skin coat to point new ways to chic.
It is varied in its coloring, giving
either a beige and white or a gray
and white aspect. The skins are placed to show great variety. Some
are used horizontally in their designs
while others run to vertical lines.
They are usually cut straight and simple, depending upon their skins for dis-tion. Fabrics are often used as trimmings on collars, cuffs and pocket-

flaps, and form effective color contrasts.

Dorothy Mackaill, the "movie" star,
wears an extremely smart snakeskin
coat that has for its trimming a brown kid belt. The tones in general
are in beige tint, and Miss Mackaill
wears a soft beige felt hat to accompany the coat. She wears this chic ensemble in her latest picture, "The Crystal Cup."

More Paris Dressmakers
Sponsor Princess Line

Several important Paris dressmaking houses have been added lately to the list of those who sponsor the new princess line. There is a noticeable tendency among the gowns one sees
at the Ritz, at Ciro's and the most fashionable night clubs, to fit closer
to a normal waistline.

The old-fashioned princess line is not yet established. But the idea is undeniably interesting the Parisian designers increasingly.

One of the variations of the fitted line is drapery at the back. Redfern carries this idea to a modified bustle effect. Talbot also shows back drapery, but in less exaggerated form.

Charm Bracelet Is One
of Season's Novelties

If you are wondering whether the "superstitions" of smartness connected with the charm bracelets are only
a passing fancy—you will be reassured that the fashion is growing stronger when you see the new "Pam-boo" bracelets—a flat silver band in the form of a snake whose head is
one of the favored semi-precious
stones. Hindoo good luck characters
are carved on the silver. They come in sets of seven, a lucky Hindoo number.

The Line That Slants

New autumn frocks are largely distinguished by an attractive diagonal
or slanting line which is becoming to
most figures and which is achieved on georgette frocks by strips of plain material or by lace in flat embroidery.
These do not disturb the snug, close-
fitting line.

STRETCH OF RAILS
ABOUNDS IN BENDS

An engineer once said Utah railroad reminded him of the rail fence
that was so crooked every time a pig crawled through it he came out on the same side.

This line, which covers the 70 miles
between Mack, Colo., and Watson,
Utah, is declared to be the most difficult to operate in the United States.
There are 237 bends in one stretch of ten miles.

Between Mack and Baxter pass, atop the Rockeff mountains, the railway climbs 3,896 feet, and to negotiate this stretch of 35 miles
geared locomotives are required. Gilsonite is the chief commodity hauled,
a vast deposit on the eastern edge of Utah being the only considerable quantity of the mineral known in America.

FUNERALS HAD
BIG BANQUETMembers, Wives and Guests
Fine Time At the Boggs
-- Knapp Orchestra.The members of the Mt. Pleasant
Funeral Directors' association, com-
prising the counties of Fairfield, Hocking, Perry and Pickaway, their wives and guests, met Thursday evening, at the Boggs hotel, and all the
counties were represented except Hocking. This meeting place being the extreme western portion of the district, it meant quite a long drive
to some present, but nevertheless they reported a beautiful drive.Dinner was served at 6:30 and music was furnished by the Knapp or-
chestra, Five Points, Miss Mary
Elizabeth Knapp, being the leader.
The orchestra comprises 12 pieces
and the personnel is: Julia Hosler,
Dewitt Bach, Geraldine Dennis,
Charlotte Knapp, Frances McCafferty,
Helyn Long, Genevieve Jones, Ray-
mond Lucas, Frances Porter, Russell
Hosler, Forest Graham, under the supervision of J. E. Knapp, Mt. Sterling, R. F. D. 3, and is ready at any time to fill engagements.After the dinner hour Mr. A. C.
Moore, the manager of the Mid-West
Box company, gave quite an instructive talk regarding the plant and the
process in making straw paper, and
following this the orchestra and the
wives of the members were entertained at the Grand opera house and the
members went into their business
session.The members are endeavoring to get better acquainted with each other
and place the profession on a high
plane as much condemnation has
been heaped upon the profession
which is uncalled for. There is no
profession, where greater purity of
character and a higher standard of
moral excellence are required than
the funeral director, and to attain
such eminence is a duty every funeral director owes to his profession
and to the public.The next meeting will be in Fairfield county and in all probability
will be held in Lancaster. Those present at the meeting were: Mr. and
Mrs. A. E. Johnson, Baltimore; Mr.
and Mrs. B. F. L'Amore, Bremen; Mr.
and Mrs. C. M. Thomen, Carroll; Mr.
and Mrs. Samuel T. Conn, Hemlock;
Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Conn and son,
James Jr., Shawnee; Mr. and Mrs. E.
F. Schlegel, Ashville; Mr. and Mrs.
C. E. Hill and daughter, Helen, Williamsport. Other guests were Rev.
Benjamin DeCamp, John Mitchell, A.
C. Moore and C. C. Chappelle.Mr. Hill presided as toastmaster
and introduced the speaker of the
evening and the other guests, while
Mr. Knapp introduced the members
of the youthful orchestra which so de-
lightfully entertained the party during the dinner hour.All in all, it was a most delightful affair, thoroughly enjoyed by all, the
visitors, who were profuse in their
praise of the dinner and of the manner in which the details of the
meeting were arranged and carried out.POPULAR, OF COURSEFirst Youth—Do you find yourself

Featured in CoatGarment Varied in Coloring,
Using Beige and White
or Gray and White.There have been so many coats
that have appeared throughout the
season to attract the roving eye of
could be little left in the way of novelty to offer a jaded public. Coats of
almost every length, color, width and
line have made their successful appearances. They have been, in many cases, made to accompany just one
frock in an ensemble idea, and have
in other instances been made to serve
any number of purposes.The sports coat, as a rule, has led the field in favor. It has much in the way of chic, for its lines have been
unusual as well as slender. There
has often been present either a swag-
ger of rather loose lines as well as a snugginess of slenderizing straight and simple silhouettes.All fabrics are chosen for the season's sport coats. From rough silk,
printed or plain, to jerseys, kashas,
twills and flannels, every material has
made itself popular through much
usage. Colors, too, have been varied.
The pastel tints of afternoon sports to
the striking shades employed in other
coats, has left little to the imagination. Dark tones, too, have been seen
in smart contrasts forming an ensemble of note.And now along comes the reptile-
skin coat to point new ways to chic.
It is varied in its coloring, giving
either a beige and white or a gray
and white aspect. The skins are placed to show great variety. Some
are used horizontally in their designs
while others run to vertical lines.
They are usually cut straight and simple, depending upon their skins for dis-Snakeskin Coat That Has Brown Kid

trimmings on collars, cuffs and pocket-
ets, and form effective color contrasts.Dorothy Mackaill, the "movie" star,
wears an extremely smart snakeskin
coat that has for its trimming a
brown kid belt. The tones in general
are in beige tint, and Miss Mackaill
wears a soft beige felt hat to accompany the coat. She wears this chic
ensemble in her latest picture, "The Crystal Cup."More Paris Dressmakers
Sponsor Princess LineSeveral important Paris dressmak-
ing houses have been added lately to
the list of those who sponsor the new
princess line. There is a noticeable
tendency among the gowns one sees
at the Ritz, at Ciro's and the most
fashionable night clubs, to fit closer
to a normal waistline.The old-fashioned princess line is not yet established. But the idea is undeniably interesting the Parisian
designers increasingly.One of the variations of the fitted
line is drapery at the back. Red-
fern carries this idea to a modified tulle effect. Talbot also shows back drapery, but in less exaggerated form.Charm Bracelet Is One of Season's NoveltiesIf you are wondering whether the "superstitions" of smartness connected with the charm bracelets are only
a passing fancy—you will be reas-ured that the fashion is growing stronger when you see the new "Pam-
boo" bracelets—a flat silver band in
the form of a snake whose head is
one of the favored semi-precious
stones. Hindoo good luck characters
are carved on the silver. They come
in sets of seven, a lucky Hindoo number.The Line That SlantsNew autumn frocks are largely distinguished by an attractive diagonal
or slanting line which is becoming to
most figures and which is achieved on
georgette frocks by strips of plain material or by lace in flat embroidery.
These do not disturb the snug, close-
fitting line.STRETCH OF RAILS

between Mack, Colo., and Watson,
Utah, is declared to be the most difficult to operate in the United States.
There are 233 bends in one stretch of ten miles.Between Mack and Baxter pass, atop the Rockcliff mountains, the railway climbs 3,806 feet, and to
negotiate this stretch of 35 miles
geared locomotives are required. Gil-

Detour

We have just been apprised of a taxi-driver whose fare, a gentleman slightly unsteady, gave the order to drive "to the end of the rainbow." The chauffeur was acquiescent—until he began to worry about the customer's ability to pay. Then he stopped the taxi, opened the door and said cheerily:
"Well, here we are!"
"Is this the end of the rainbow?" Inquired the fare.
"Well, not quite, sir," was the ingenuous reply. "The end is really one block west, but the street's torn up and you'll have to get out here."—New Yorker.

Pleasant Trip, Except—

A Bloomington girl started out on a 1,000-mile trip. So optimistic was she that she not only did not carry a spare tire, but did not have any repair tools either.
On her return recently she was asked how she enjoyed the trip which she took alone.
Her answer was: "I didn't have a bit of tire trouble. I told you I wouldn't. And I only ran out of gas three times and out of money twice and I only got held up once."—Indianapolis News.

Casually strolling into a shop in Havana recently, an American woman tourist asked to see certain designs of handkerchiefs. Then she picked out 300, counted out $450 in bills and ordered the handkerchiefs sent to her hotel. She said she intended to give many of them to friends in New York.

Improves the Bank Balance

"Have you made any improvements around the farm?" he was asked.
"Yes, sir," answered Farmer Hawbuck. "We've rechristened the old barn. We call it a garage now and make the summer boarders pay rent for it."—Boston Transcript.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

AMUSEMENTS

Why should an outlaw help his enemy? That was what puzzled "Two-Gun" Calder when he was saved from the gun-fire of the sheriff's posse by Darrell, notorious leader of a bandit gang.

But he was soon to find out. "Two-Gun" is quick on the draw—perhaps quicker than Darrell himself. He is resourceful and fearless. On Darrell's side he would be invaluable, so Darrell forces "Two-Gun" to become an outlaw.

"Two Gun" had no intention of joining the bandit's crew—especially when he was guiltless, and the girl he loved was in the power of Darrell. He matches his wits, his strength and his guns against Darrell in a story that is said to be one on the best presented by Pathe with its popular western star, Leo Maloney. It is called "Two Gun of the Tumbleweed" and is showing today at the Met theater.

Two leading ladies appear in the picture. They are Peggy Montgomery and Josephine Hill. Others in the cast are Joe Rickson, Fred Dana, Bud Osborne, Whitehorse and Robert Burns. Ford I. Beebe adapted "Two Gun of the Tumbleweed" for the screen from the story of Robert J. Horton. As usual, Maloney, himself, directed.

LADIES OF TALENT
TAKING UP AVIATION*French Novelist and Musician Win Licenses.

Paris.—Novelists and musicians are seeking inspiration in the skies.

Among the latest women to be awarded pilots' licenses in France are two women whose reputations were first achieved in literature and music.

Frenchmen believe that if a woman can fly the Atlantic ocean, that woman is Mme. Louise Faure-Favier, who is as well known for her books as she is for her flying. She holds the world's altitude record for women flyers with a 6,500-meter distance. Many of her novels have plots of air and aviation. Her latest novel is concerned with the conflict between the black and white races.

Mme. Faure-Favier flew the English channel in 1919, the first woman to accomplish this feat. She was also first of her sex to fly the Mediterranean from Marseilles to Algiers, which she did in 1923.

France conferred the Legion of Honor upon her for her literary accomplishments as well as her daring air feats. She has a gold medal of the French Aviation club.

Bolivian Woman Sensation.

A South American musician, writer and lecturer, Senorita Amalia de La Tapia, has astonished veteran French air men by her skill in passing pilots' tests in Paris.

Senorita Amalia, who comes from Bolivia, is still in her early twenties, but she handles a plane with daring and skill, although she believes that flying is not a woman's game, as a rule.

"Flying takes too much sacrifice and cool-headedness to be a suitable profession for women," she explained. "There are many other matters more suited to them and in which they can be more useful than men."

The Bolivian girl first took to the air in Peru, and since then, she says, her one idea has been to become a pilot. When her family opposed her she went to the United States, where she secretly began to learn to fly. She finished her work in France and last spring was breveted pilot.

Can't Get Jobs.

But women are out of luck as aviators in France. They have the legal and moral right to fly, but none of the airplane companies will employ them.

The decision of the international commission of aerial navigation, recently authorizing women to pilot commercial and passenger airplanes, opened the gates to airfields. But the men who own the air services in France say they have no intention of employing them as air pilots.

All the principal French companies have said: "No women." Some of them admit that the rigid physical examination required of pilots would protect the public, but air work is a man's job, they say.

Future perfection of airplane mechanics and science, some suggest, may change their attitude.

Although Senorita de la Tapia therefore has no hope of practicing her profession as a commercial pilot in France, she may, however, take up piloting in Bolivia where the government, she says, is interested in developing air communications despite the difficulties imposed by high altitudes.

2000 Miles Farther in 25,243 Less Minutes

THE public thinks of such trains as the "Century" and the "Chief" as being fast. They are.

But it requires over 65,600 minutes for 45 of the world's fastest trains, going in all directions from Chicago, to run 40,000 miles. And these trains get MANY fresh engines, at regular intervals, in order to make this remarkable speed.

Contrast this phenomenal performance of three Auburn fully equipped STOCK cars that ran 42,000 miles in less than 40,435 minutes (exact duplicates in every way of the Auburn cars every Auburn dealer has).

Here is an amazing record of performance, endurance and value never before approached, let alone equalled.

No change of engines for these three stock cars. No favoritism, but the hardest kind of driving, continuously, under American Automobile Association official supervision, on the Atlantic City Speedway.

To even RUN 42,000 continuous miles, at much less speed, would be a tremendous tribute to ANY automobile's efficiency and stamina. That is farther mileage and infinitely harder punishment than any three average private owners impose on their cars in a whole year's service.

But no other car has ever survived an official test of this magnitude and distance. Three Auburn cars DID it, at speeds that overwhelmingly break all records.

Not only that, but we KNOW that Auburn cars can go much farther at even FASTER speed.

The purpose of this test was not speed, altho that is sensational and establishes Auburn supreme in this respect.

The real purpose was to prove in the acid test of this proving grounds that Auburn cars ARE better designed, better built, more efficient, and more durable.

In these highly competitive days of extravagant claims, the public is entitled to the unvarnished truth about the relative value of motor cars.

It is what a car DOES and not what its builders SAY that determines VALUE.

Amber Beads Long Popular
The superstition which clings to the meaning of beads is of ancient origin. The custom of wearing an amber necklace was immensely common, and is not yet extinct among old women in England. The amber, when heated, sends forth an agreeable perfume. In olden times it was the present made by a mother to her daughter on her wedding eve.

Aged Serbians
Serbia is the country of centenarians. One man in every 2,600 reaches one hundred years. Ireland ranks next, with one in every 8,130. Out of every 43,000 Spaniards one is a centenarian. In England, Scotland and Wales one in every 177,000; in France one in 180,750, and Switzerland, with all its reputed healthfulness, seems not to possess one.

CHANGES OF 45 YEARS

Early Railroads In Columbus Discussed at Luncheon.
B. W. Herriman, vice president of the Norfolk and Western R. R., Wednesday noon at the Kiwanis luncheon in the Neil House contrasted the conditions surrounding the freight houses in Columbus when he came to Columbus 45 years ago and now.

He began his career here as a messenger boy for the old Bee Line and the Scioto Valley, the former now part of the Big Four and the latter now part of the Norfolk and Western. Herriman said he could remember when not a railroad in Columbus could boast of a paved roadway to the freight house or to the team tracks. Four-horse teams were compelled to pull through five inches of dust in the summertime and an equal amount of mire in the wintertime.

PIONEER TRAIL

In Ohio To Be Marked By Statue.

A statue will be erected somewhere in Ohio to mark one of the old trails.

A. Leimback, St. Louis sculptor, is putting the finishing touches on "The Madonna of the Trail" which has been accepted by the Daughters of the American Revolution to mark the national trails across the United States.

Twelve of these statues, each 18 feet tall, are to be placed in Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and California. The exact location of the Ohio monument has not yet been determined.

Eye Injuries Expensive

In one eastern state alone during the past year, 720 eye injuries to industrial workers were reported. Seven of these accidents resulted in total blindness and 349 employees suffered the total loss of one eye and 363 partial loss. In compensation, this cost the employers $1,300,000 and it is computed that the indirect loss under such circumstances is four times that of the direct loss, so that this brings the total up to $5,000,000. Many of these accidents could have been prevented by proper precautions by the employees or employers.

Benefit in Wearing Glasses

Wearing glasses does not weaken the eyes. This effect is apparent because the eye gives up straining and reveals the full necessity for glasses. Often eyes become so strengthened by the rest thus given that after a time the glasses are no longer needed.

LOANS UP TO $500

But don't be like Ali Hafed. Better look around and learn of the advantages that await your observation and action right here in your own territory, then call on The City Loan and borrow the money to take advantage of these opportunities. A timely loan may be the means of helping you find your "natural bent" whereby you can walk straight to prosperity and happiness. The City Loan is worthy of your patronage. Ali Hafed, a Persian farmer, sold his land to go out and seek his fortune. He who bought the farm found it contained a diamond mine which made him fabulously rich. Ali Hafed overlooked this opportunity at his own door to go far afield in search of wealth—which illustrates a great truth.

Amber Beads Long Popular

The superstition which clings to the meaning of beads is of ancient origin. The custom of wearing an amber necklace was immensely common, and is not yet extinct among old women in England. The amber, when heated, sends forth an agreeable perfume. In olden times it was the present made by a mother to her daughter on her wedding eve.

Aged Serbians

Serbia is the country of centenarians. One man in every 2,600 reaches one hundred years. Ireland ranks next, with one in every 8,130. Out of every 48,000 Spaniards one is a centenarian. In England, Scotland and Wales one in every 177,000; in France one in 180,750, and Switzerland, with all its reputed healthfulness, seems not to possess one.

CHANGES OF

45 YEARS

Early Railroads In Columbus Discussed at Luncheon.

B. W. Herriman, vice president of the Norfolk and Western R. R., Wednesday noon at the Kiwanis luncheon in the Neil House contrasted the conditions surrounding the freight houses in Columbus when he came to Columbus 45 years ago and now.

He began his career here as a messenger boy for the old Bee Line and the Scioto Valley, the former now part of the Big Four and the latter now part of the Norfolk and Western.

Herriman said he could remember when not a railroad in Columbus could boast of a paved roadway to the freight house or to the team tracks. Four-horse teams were compelled to pull through five inches of dust in the summertime and an equal amount of mire in the wintertime.

PIONEER TRAIL

In Ohio To Be Marked By Statue.

A statue will be erected somewhere in Ohio to mark one of the old trails.

A. Leimback, St. Louis sculptor, is putting the finishing touches on "The Madonna of the Trail" which has been accepted by the Daughters of the American Revolution to mark the national trails across the United States.

Twelve of these statues, each 18 feet tall, are to be placed in Maryland, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and California. The exact location of the Ohio monument has not yet been determined.

Eye Injuries Expensive

In one eastern state alone during the past year, 720 eye injuries to industrial workers were reported. Seven of these accidents resulted in total blindness and 349 employees suffered the total loss of one eye and 563 partial loss. In compensation, this cost the employers $1,300,000 and it is computed that the indirect loss under such circumstances is four times that of the direct loss, so that this brings the total up to $5,000,000. Many of these accidents could have been prevented by proper precautions by the employees or employers.

Benefit in Wearing Glasses

Wearing glasses does not weaken the eyes. This effect is apparent because the eye gives up straining and reveals the full necessity for glasses. Often eyes become so strengthened by the rest thus given that after a time the glasses are no longer needed.

CONGRATULATIONS

We are very proud to be handling the car that Mr. Gamer selected for use in his business. Mr. Gamer said in my work as manager of the largest cleaning plant in America it became necessary for me to investigate delivery trucks, my requirements were that it be speedy when needed and yet throttle down in traffic. That it be the neatest looking vehicle to be had and still be economical in service. His answer is the purchase of the Pontiac delivery car which he installed in his own business as well as with the large firm that he was with.

Crist Department Store furnished the 70 yards of Granite Inlaid Linoleum for the large office. The floor filler for the window, making it look like Hardwood floor; 66 yards of Gold Seal Congoleum for the pressing room and the drapery for the window, besides both congoleum and Wool throw Rugs. An unusual piece of work was done by Crist's Linoleum Department when they cemented, over felt, a heavy Tile Inlaid Linoleum in the vestibule—A rather unheard of thing laying linoleum out in the weather but they knew their job and by using plenty of water resisting cement around the edge the linoleum is just as satisfactory as an expensive tile floor.

We predict a brilliant future for the new firm and we have tried to help them carry out their slogan: "A Little Better Than the Other Fellow's Best."

Detroit, Oct. 6—(UP).—Attorneys for Mrs. Alice Gray Kales, suing to recover $2,627,309 in alleged excessive income tax, today accepted the offer of government council for a full judgment in her favor to permit the government to appeal the case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati.

The appeal will be based on a ruling by Federal Judge Ben Dawkins that the government cannot revise its valuation of Ford Motor Co. stock which the Internal Revenue Bureau furnished Mrs. Kales and other stockholders when they sold out to Henry Ford.

Worth-While Invitation
An invitation to a wedding in Cairo is an important event, because, instead of being asked for a ten-minute church ceremony or a brief reception, the invitation reads "for three days." There is feasting during all this time, and the house and street are liberally decorated with flags and lanterns.—Brooklyn Eagle.

American Mule Ousting Horse for Farm Work
Recent statistics show that the long-sared, loud-voiced mule still continues to do a full share of the work of the farm despite the progress of motor-propelled machinery, writes Uthal V. Wilcox in the Dearborn Independent. The mule population of the United States has grown nearly a million head in the eleven years following 1914. It is now estimated at more than 5,411,000.

Government officials note that the growers of cotton, tobacco, rice and sugar cane have swung over almost entirely to the use of mules in preparing their crops. Experience seems to indicate that the mule can do the most work on the cheapest feed and with the lowest grade of driver.

Reports from the leading mule markets of the country, such as St. Louis, Kansas City, Atlanta and other places, show that the demand for mules is today very keen. In fact, one handler of farm animals said that "not since the war, when mules were used for cannon fodder, has the demand been so brisk."

The mule is becoming a favorite over the horse for the farm. The Kansas City market, as an example, showed 65 per cent horses to 35 per cent mules in other years and now it is 85 per cent mules and 15 per cent horses.

One of World's Wonders
The hanging gardens of Babylon consisted of trees and flowers apparently planted upon the roof of some building. The structure was one square terrace built upon another to about 150 feet in height and resting upon hollow pillars of burnt brick which were filled with earth. For irrigation, water had to be pumped up from the Euphrates river.

The Most Important Customer In Our Store
There's an old story about a tiny vendor of plum tarts in London who refused to permit a wealthy man to buy his day's supply, because, as he wisely stated, "I won't have any left for my regular customers."

Young as he was he had already learned the basic lesson of merchandising that it isn't the one or two big sales that count, but the "regular customers" who will make or break a business.

The J. C. Penney Company have built up this store with the help of the "regular customer." Mothers often bring their newly-married daughters here, knowing that our spirit of helpful service will assist them in the problems of their new home.

Worth-While Invitation
An invitation to a wedding in Cairo is an important event, because, instead of being asked for a ten-minute church ceremony or a brief reception, the invitation reads "for three days." Jeanette always expects something when her father comes home. One day just as he entered she said: "What have you got today, daddy?" Got Her Letter Back

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

(Copyright.)

ANNE rushed out to post the afternoon letters from the little suburban shop in which she worked. She had stuffed the letters into her bag and as she reached the red-letter box on the corner she pulled out the bulky lot and pushed them through the opening.

Then, as she turned away, she gasped and searched her bag.

Yes, she had tossed in the most private letter she had received that very morning—the one in which the manager of the shop in which she was employed, had proposed to her.

It was unthinkable that John Barnes' lovely letter should be handed about the post office for every postman in the village to read. That's what Anne knew would happen, and then they would all spread the news that John Barnes, proprietor of the village department store, had proposed to Anne Hardwick.

"Whatever shall I do?" Anne asked herself desperately, and decided first that she had better marry him so that he would not have to bear the title of "rejected suitor" among the village teasers. Anyway, Anne had about decided that question in her own mind. She was very fond of John, and after all he was an exceptionally good match for any girl.

Then, all of a sudden she realized that she might go to the post office and ask one of the postmen to get her letter for her. Surely that would be quite simple.

Anne went straight around to that government building and was soon discussing her case with a decidedly pleasant young man.

"I'll tell you the only thing we can do," he told her, and Anne liked his smile, "since we must not open the letter box until collecting time—perhaps you could be there at 7:45 this evening and the postman will then get your letter for you."

"Oh!" said Anne with a lovely blush, "it is very good of you. I wouldn't have wanted my letter lost—it's a very—"

The young man didn't exactly like the emotion Anne displayed regarding her letter. It looked almost as if her love affairs were a settled thing. No girl would act like that over a mere letter even if it were an intimate epistle. No—it must be a love letter.

"I understand," laughed Elwood, "and since you must have it back—you shall most certainly have it. You just pop along to the letter box at 7:45. The collector will get it for you."

Anne hesitated. "You will tell him—so I won't have to explain again?" she questioned. "Yes," said Elwood. "I'll tell him that a very lovely young lady is in a very distressed condition because she had dropped into the letter box a well-a note from a maiden aunt."

Anne looked up and caught the twinkle in his eyes and a quick blush rewarded him.

"Well, you wouldn't want the love letters you had written to the girl you were going to marry read by everyone in the town?" she snapped back at him.

"I don't write love letters and I'm not going to marry any girl—at least—"

Anne smiled and from the kind of smile it was Elwood knew she had found out what she wanted to know. It rather pleased him that she was desirous of knowing whether or not he was "booked up," as it were.

"Well—" Anne had wickedness in her eyes now, "perhaps, if the post office is able to restore my love letter—we will invite the entire staff to the wedding," and with that she dodged back to the face counter of John Barnes' store.

"There's one you won't get to your wedding, little lady," Elwood told that vanishing form, "unless he's the man who says, 'I will.'"

And that evening, just when the sun was sinking in glorious splendor behind the great hills that hugged the outer rim of the town, Anne stood beside the red post box. Instead of thinking of John Barnes she was seeing again the laughing face of the young man who was to get her letter back for her, and the more she thought of him the less inclined she felt to answer that letter in the affirmative.

Then in the near distance she saw the collecting postman approaching and for a second she didn't quite realize that he was the young man about whom her thoughts were centered.

Anne was possessed by a great desire to run away—why, she didn't exactly know. But she stood her ground and in another moment Elwood had raised his cap to her.

"Just in time," he greeted her with a laugh; "you are more than anxious to get that letter back. I suppose you want to put it along with red roses and other treasured mementoes."

Anne smiled. That peevishness meant a whole lot to her.

She glanced at her watch. "It's collection time," she reminded him. Elwood gave himself the pleasure of a long look into Anne's eyes, and what he saw there made him more willing to unlock the letter box.

A few minutes later John Barnes' love letter was restored to its recipient, and in another second, with a soft little smile, Anne tore it into a thousand pieces—"that's that," she said.

PLEA FOR BOYS MADE BEFORE BROTHERHOOD

Of M. E. Church By Ex Auditor H. Sage Valentine
Thursday Evening.

The Methodist Brotherhood Thursday evening listened to good talks given by two residents of Columbus, Ex-municipal Court Judge Franklin Rubrecht and Ex-county Auditor H. Sage Valentine.

The former spoke of the non-attendance of members of churches and attributed the fact to the unsettled conditions arising from the settlement of the World war. He thought that in time we would get settled and turn more of our attention to religion. Commercialism in a way, has done its part in keeping down the attendance and the automobile is also to blame. People, with the increase of cheap motor vehicles have become a pleasure loving public and are out every Sunday, touring the out-of-doors and staying away from church.

Mr. Valentine told of having been at one time a resident of this city, of having hobnobbed with Mayor George M. Fitzpatrick, when he was a boy, running the streets as a ragged urchin, going fishing and doing the mischievous things that all red blooded kids do nowadays. He also made a plea for the boy, get better acquainted with him and take him to your bosom. Be a big brother, take the lad literally into your arms and make something of him, make him believe that some day he will amount to something, and he will grow up and make a good citizen. In this way, you will instill ambition and he will become a success. I know it well from my own experience in life.

The greatest institution in the world is the home and church brotherhoods do more to maintain the safety of the home than any other organization. Kind treatment will do more for the boy than anything else in the world. Make a bed of roses whose fragrance may be exhaled by others. You will gain more by giving, than by receiving. It is the key to success. The selfish very seldom get very far; your influence for good pays in the end. Rev. Franklin McElfresh opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Frank H. Kline Jr., sang a solo. George M. Fitzpatrick, president of the Methodist Episcopal Brotherhood presided and members of the Presbyterian, United Brethren and Lutheran Brotherhoods attended with those of the Methodist organization.

San Francisco.—Louis Morgan, descendant of Sir Henry Morgan, notorious pirate of the Seventeenth century, recently was preparing to go to Central America in search of loot Sir Henry's followers carried after they had sacked the city of Panama in 1671, and were said by tradition to have buried on a bayou near Darien bay in the present republic of Panama.

Morgan, son of Frank Pierce Morgan, the district attorney of Victoria, Texas, and Capt. A. Pearson, veteran skipper on both the Atlantic and the Pacific, have joined in the venture. The men have launched the 40-foot auxiliary launch Saxon for the voyage.

The treasure hunt will be guided by a map reputed to have been left by Sir Henry Morgan himself.

"Yes," said Elswood, "I'll tell him that a very lovely young lady is in a very distressed condition because she had dropped into the letter box a—well a note from a maiden aunt."

Anne looked up and caught the twinkle in his eyes and a quick blush rewarded him.

"Well, you wouldn't want the love letters you had written to the girl you were going to marry read by everyone in the town!" she snapped back at him.

"I don't write love letters and I'm not going to marry any girl—at least—"

Anne smiled and from the kind of smile it was Elswood knew she had found out what she wanted to know. It rather pleased him that she was desirous of knowing whether or not he was "booked up," as it were.

"Well—" Anne had wickedness in her eyes now, "perhaps, if the post office is able to restore my love letter—we will invite the entire staff to the wedding," and with that she dodged back to the lace counter of John Barnes' store.

"There's one you won't get to your wedding, little lady," Elswood told that vanishing form, "unless he's the man who says, 'I will!'"

And that evening, just when the sun was sinking in glorious splendor behind the great hills that hugged the outer rim of the town, Anne was beside the red post box. Instead of thinking of John Barnes she was seeing again the laughing face of the young man who was to get her letter back for her, and the more she thought of him the less inclined she felt to answer that letter in the affirmative.

Then in the near distance she saw the collecting postman approaching and for a second she didn't quite realize that he was the young man about whom her thoughts were centered.

Anne was possessed by a great desire to run away—why, she didn't exactly know. But she stood her ground and in another moment Elswood had raised his cap to her.

Anne smiled. That peevishness meant a whole lot to her.

She glanced at her watch. "It's collection time," she reminded him.

Elswood gave himself the pleasure of a long look into Anne's eyes, and what he saw there made him more willing to unlock the letter box.

A few minutes later John Barnes' love letter was restored to its recipient, and in another second, with a soft little smile, Anne tore it into a thousand pieces—"that's that," she said.

Of M. E. Church By Ex Auditor H. Sage Valentine
Thursday Evening.

The Methodist Brotherhood Thursday evening listened to good talks given by two residents of Columbus, Ex-municipal Court Judge Franklin Rubrecht and Ex-county Auditor H. Sage Valentine.

The former spoke of the non-attendance of members of churches and attributed the fact to the unsettled conditions arising from the settlement of the World war. He thought that in time we would get settled and turn more of our attention to religion. Commercialism in a way, has done its part in keeping down the attendance and the automobile is also to blame. People, with the increase of cheap motor vehicles have become a pleasure loving public and are out every Sunday, touring the out-of-doors and staying away from church.

Mr. Valentine told of having been at one time a resident of this city, of having hobnobbed with Mayor George M. Fitzpatrick, when he was a boy, running the streets as a ragged urchin, going fishing and doing the mischievous things that all red blooded kids do nowadays. He also made a plea for the boy, get better acquainted with him and take him to your bosom. Be a big brother, take the lad literally into your arms and make something of him, make him believe that some day he will amount to something, and he will grow up and make a good citizen. In this way, you will instill ambition and he will become a success. I know it well from my own experience in life.

The greatest institution in the world is the home and church brotherhoods do more to maintain the safety of the home than any other organization. Kind treatment will do more for the boy than anything else in the world. Make a bed of roses whose fragrance may be exhaled by others. You will gain more by giving, than by receiving. It is the key to success. The selfish very seldom get very far; your influence for good pays in the end.

Rev. Franklin McElfresh opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Frank H. Kline Jr., sang a solo.

George M. Fitzpatrick, president of the Methodist Episcopal Brotherhood presided and members of the Presbyterian, United Brethren and Lutheran Brotherhoods attended with those of the Methodist organization.

Buried Treasure Hunt

Plan of Morgan's Kin

San Francisco.—Louis Morgan, descendant of Sir Henry Morgan, notorious pirate of the Seventeenth century, recently was preparing to go to Central America in search of loot Sir Henry's followers carried after they had sacked the city of Panama in 1671, and were said by tradition to have buried on a bayou near Darien bay in the present republic of Panama.

Morgan, son of Frank Pierce Morgan, the district attorney of Victoria, Texas, and Capt. A. Pearson, veteran skipper on both the Atlantic and the Pacific, have joined in the venture. The men have launched the 40-foot auxiliary launch Saxon for the voyage.

The treasure hunt will be guided by a map reputed to have been left by Sir Henry Morgan himself.
